

still I Have a Dream Youth Voices, Action and Leadership

Young people have always been at the forefront of creating social change. The 2007 Martin Luther King Day Program will honor the youth of the Civil Rights Movement and recognize young people who are working for social justice in our communities today.

January 15, 2007
Northampton High School
380 Elm Street

Community Gathering

1:00 – 2:45 PM (doors open at 12:30)

Local youth will facilitate a program that highlights the importance of carrying on Dr. King's legacy. Through music, poetry and video, an engaging panel of youth speakers and artists will share their perspectives on issues of social change.

Workshops

3:00 – 4:00 PM

A choice of workshops will focus on contemporary civil rights issues ranging from empowering youth to take leadership roles in their community to understanding your rights when stopped by law enforcement.

Musical Celebration

4:15 – 5:00 PM

The afternoon program will conclude with an interactive musical celebration of social action past and present.

Talent Showcase

6:00 PM – 9:00 PM

Location: Northampton Center for the Arts, 17 New South Street

This event is part of the bimonthly Youth of Color and Allies event series hosted by Youth Leadership in the Arts (YLA).
