Lale speaking Event: April 20th FPH main lecture hall 7-9pm

Please join us for an amazing evening with Lale Labuko and John Rowe, as they tell the story about the people and cultures of the ancient tribes of the Omo Valley in Southwest Ethiopia.

Lale Labuko is from the Kara Tribe in the Omo Valley and is the founder of an organization which provides care and shelter for children. Lale is the first person from his tribe to speak English and the only person to fly in an airplane or visit America. You will hear the compelling story of Lale's struggle to save children of the region from certain death based on the customs known as "Mingi" the state of being impure or "ritually polluted". Lale is making a new life for children who would otherwise have no chance of survival.
