

A year of service, discernment, social justice and intentional community in New York City

New York Intern Program

Now accepting applicants for the 2014-2015 program year

An opportunity for young adults to commit to a year of service, discernment, social justice and intentional community, based in a diverse and historic Harlem church. Recent college graduates, ages 21-29, join NYIP from late August through mid-August of the following year, to provide services to people in need, through initiatives at some of New York City's most innovative and caring agencies.

Interns share an apartment in the church, and participate in the worship life and social action happening in and around this welcoming, activist faith community.

We are open to people of all backgrounds and religions, including no religion.

Examples of internships :

- Eviction-protection initiatives
- Church outreach programs to the hungry and homeless
- Legal advocacy for workers' rights
- Social media campaigns for non-profits
- Development and administration of grant programs

NYIP interns receive a stipend, health insurance, rent + utilities, high-speed Internet, free access to public transportation, an end-of-year Relocation Allowance, and five expense-paid Retreats. Our Interns take time to discern and clarify their gifts and goals, in preparation for becoming leaders in their chosen fields.
