

Earn A Master's Degree in Jewish Studies at Columbia University

The Institute for Israel and Jewish Studies at Columbia University invites candidates to apply to the Master's program. This one- or two-year program is designed for students at any stage of their careers who are interested in deepening their knowledge of Jewish history, religion, literature, and Israel.

If you work or plan to work in Jewish education, administration, journalism, or related fields, the Master's Program may be the perfect educational opportunity for you!

For more information, contact
Adam Kirsch at ak3111@columbia.edu or visit iijs.columbia.edu/masters-program

Columbia University,
511 Fayerweather Hall
New York, NY 10027

